

Anne Croy

Is a Professor at the Department of Anatomy and Cell Biology in the Queen's University of Canada. Her research evaluates the functions, mechanisms of activation and lineage relationships of immune competent cell populations that home to the maternal-fetal interface during mammalian pregnancy. Of her particular interest is the uterine Natural Killer lymphocyte.